

Piano Grand Staff Basics

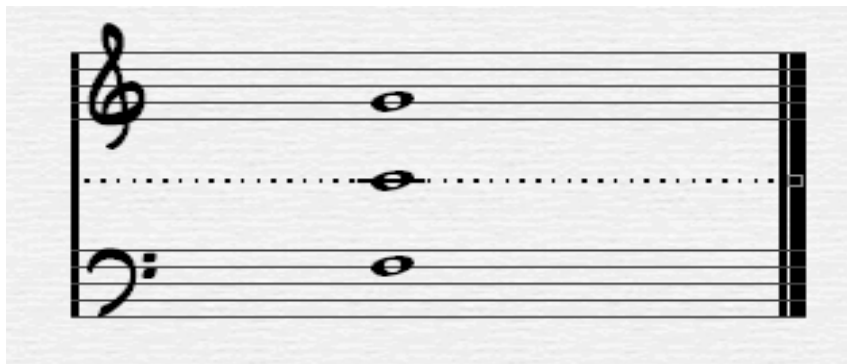

The grand staff is combined of these two staves. The top staff is for the right hand and the bottom one is for left hand.

There's an imaginary line which stands for middle C in the middle the staves.

The staff covers three sets of keys from A-G.

We don't have to study all the notes right now. I simply want to show you how this works in a layout. For now simply concentrate on the learning to read the notes stated with the letters. We will focus on read these notes in the next few piano lessons.

Now, here is a nice realization.

Both clefs are located on the second line in relationship with middle C.

That will help you to read notes faster.

You can always find the G note and the F fast and relate the other notes to these notes.
